How Does This Work?

Welcome to the Bald and Bonkers Song Collection #1: Lyrics for the Indie Artist.

Music has always been a vessel for the raw, the real, and the unspoken. The lyrics contained within these pages were penned by Dakota Frandsen, the founder of Bald and Bonkers Network LLC. For Dakota, songwriting is more than just pairing rhymes; it is a deeply cathartic process. The words you are about to read are intimately tied to the personal struggles and triumphs he was facing at the exact moments they were written. They are authentic, unfiltered, and ready for the right artist to breathe life into them.

This collection was designed specifically with the indie artist in mind. If you find a connection with these words and want to transform them into your next track, here is everything you need to know about how the process works:

LICENSING AND COPYRIGHT

All of the lyrics featured in this book are available to be sold and licensed exclusively through SongwriterLyric, a platform based in the UK.

When you purchase a license to use these lyrics, you are being granted the legal permission to use them for your musical projects. However, please note that Dakota Frandsen retains the legal copyright to all written works within this collection. Additionally, Frandsen is proudly affiliated with BMI (Broadcast Music, Inc.), which assists in the collection of performance royalties once your track makes its way out into the world.

A NOTE ON THE MARKETPLACE

While Dakota uses SongwriterLyric as the exclusive selling point for his catalog, he and Bald and Bonkers Network LLC are not affiliated with the platform in any other way, shape, or form. Because of this, we strongly encourage every reader and prospective buyer to carefully read and understand the Terms of Service provided by SongwriterLyric before purchasing a license.

HOW TO USE THIS BOOK

Inside, you will find the absolute entirety of every song—no snippets, no teasers, just the full lyrical journey from the first verse to the final chorus.

As you read through, you may find the perfect words for the melody playing in your head. To make the process as seamless as possible, a direct link to the exact SongwriterLyric selling page is provided right alongside each song. Simply follow the link, secure your license, and get to work in the studio.

Thank you for supporting independent song-writing, and we can't wait to hear the music you create with the Bald and Bonkers Song Collection #1.

(Verse 1)

The screen goes dark, the call is done
I'm staring at the miles between us, wishing there were none

You tell me that you're tired, you're putting up a fight

I'd give anything to sit beside your bed
tonight

I hate the sterile walls that you have to see

I hate the empty chair where I'm supposed to be

(Pre-Chorus)

It drives me crazy that I can't reach through
To hold your hand and take the ache from
you

I feel so helpless being stuck out here
But I need to make one thing crystal clear
(Chorus)

I might be a highway, a time zone, a flight
away

But I'm right beside you through the shadows
of today

When you feel exhausted, just close your eyes
and know

I'm the quiet voice cheering everywhere you
go

You're always in my heart, you're never on your own

Even from a distance, my love is your home
(Verse 2)

Some days the mountain feels too steep to climb

BALD AND BONKERS SONG COLLECTION #1
| 7

And we're just counting down the days and marking off the time
But I am in awe of the courage in your soul
You're the bravest, most beautiful person that I know
So when the monitor beeps or the room goes cold
Wrap yourself up in the promises I've told
(Pre-Chorus)
It drives me crazy that I can't reach through
To hold your hand and take the ache from
you
I feel so helpless being stuck out here
But I need to make one thing crystal clear
(Chorus)
I might be a highway, a time zone, a flight
away
But I'm right beside you through the shadows
of today
When you feel exhausted, just close your eyes
and know
I'm the quiet voice cheering everywhere you
go

You're always in my heart, you're never on
your own
Even from a distance, my love is your home
(Bridge)
If love was a medicine, you'd heal in a second
If wishing closed the gap, I'd be walking through the door
So borrow my strength whenever yours is tested
I'm standing in your corner, today and evermore
I'm fighting right beside you, even fighting from afar
No matter where I am, I am right where you are
(Chorus)
I might be a highway, a time zone, a flight
away
But I'm right beside you through the shadows
of today
When you feel exhausted, just close your eyes
and know
I'm the quiet voice cheering everywhere you
go

You're always in my heart, you're never on
your own

Even from a distance, my love is your home
(Outro)

Keep fighting, my darling, I'm right here
Through the static, the phone calls, and every single tear

You might not see me, but I'm holding onto
you

Just close your eyes... we're gonna make it through.

How'd You Know?

Genre: Country

Buy Here: <https://songwriterlink.com/lyrics/buy/howd-you-know>

(Verse 1)

Since the cancer took you, Grandpa, the family lost its way

You were the only dad I knew, and I need your advice today

I spent my life behind a wall, keeping every feeling tied

But the thought of living without her breaks me down inside.

(Pre-Chorus)

We bonded over Lucifer, finding light in the darkest parts

She brings a steady peace to my chaotic, guarded heart

Now I'm crying in my therapy, vulnerable and scared

To cross a thousand miles for a love that can't be compared.

(Chorus)

Tell me, how did you know Grandma was the one?

You spoiled her, and she pushed you to fight
until your days were done

I found a love like that, but she's a thousand miles away

Bridging the gap will shake our worlds, but I can't let her stray

I want to make her my wife, start a family
anew

Man, I just really wish I could talk it out with
you.

(Bridge)

I'm terrified of dropping the walls, terrified of the unknown

But I'd rather brave the earthquake than to ever walk alone.

(Chorus)

Tell me, how did you know Grandma was the one?

You spoiled her, and she pushed you to fight
until your days were done

I found a love like that, but she's a thousand
miles away

Bridging the gap will shake our worlds, but I can't let her stray

I want to make her my wife, start a family
anew

Grandpa, I'm taking the leap. I know what I have to do.

(Outro)

Yeah, I'm taking the leap.

I know she's the one.

Thanks for listening, old man.

Tell Me

Genre: Country

Buy Here: <https://songwriterlink.com/lyrics/buy/tell-me>

(Verse 1)

Hey Grandpa, it's been a while since the cancer took you away

The family completely shattered, we couldn't make the pieces stay

You were the only dad I knew, the steady anchor of my life

And now I'm sitting here just wondering about how to choose a wife

I spent my whole life bottled up, a fortress locked up tight
But lately I've been breaking down in the middle of the night
Thinking about the distance, and the terrifying unknown
Wishing I could call you up, just to not feel so alone.

(Pre-Chorus)

I sit there in my therapy, finally speaking out her name
And the thought of living without her drives me half insane
She makes me feel so vulnerable, it scares the
hell out of me
But she tore down all my armor, and she set the real me free.

(Chorus)

So tell me, how did you know that Grandma
was the one?
You treated her like royalty until your days
were done

And when you wanted to give up the fight,
she pushed you to hold on
I found a love like that, but she's thousands of miles gone
She stabilizes all my chaos, helps me be a better man
I want to make her my wife, and I need to understand
Bridging this gap will shake our worlds, an earthquake through and through Man, I just really wish I could talk it out with you.

(Verse 2)

We bonded over a fallen angel, that Devil on TV
Just like Lucifer and the detective, she saw the hidden parts of me
When my days are at their most hectic, she's a calming, steady grace
And despite the heavy obstacles, I just want to see her face
I used to be so guarded, wouldn't let a single tear drop down

Now the thought of never holding her brings me weeping to the ground
It's a terrifying mirror, looking at a love so deep
A thousand miles of highway, and a giant leap to keep.

(Pre-Chorus)

I sit there in my therapy, admitting I'm afraid
If I don't close the distance, I know my soul will fade
She makes me feel so vulnerable, it scares the
hell out of me
But she's the only one who showed me who I'm meant to be.

(Chorus)

So tell me, how did you know that Grandma
was the one?
You treated her like royalty until your days
were done
And when you wanted to give up the fight,
she pushed you to hold on

I found a love like that, but she's thousands of miles gone
She stabilizes all my chaos, helps me be a better man
I want to make her my wife, and I need to understand
Bridging this gap will shake our worlds, an earthquake through and through Man, I just really wish I could talk it out with
you.

(Bridge)

I know making this real means everything changes overnight
A storm of uncertainty, stepping out into the light
But I want to spoil her just like you spoiled your bride
I want to be the man who is standing by her side
I'm terrified of falling, I'm terrified to fail
But living life behind a wall is just another kind of jail.

(Guitar Solo / Instrumental Break)

(Chorus)

Tell me, how did you know that Grandma
was the one?

You treated her like royalty until your days
were done

And when you wanted to give up the fight,
she pushed you to hold on

I found a love like that, though she's thousands of miles gone

She stabilizes all my chaos, helps me be a better man

I'm gonna make her my wife, I think I finally got a plan

Taking this leap will shake our worlds, but it's what I have to do

Grandpa, thanks for listening. I really miss you too.

(Outro)

Yeah, I'm gonna take the leap.

I'm gonna let the walls come down.

I'll be the dad you were to me.

Christmas Miles Between

Genre: Country

Buy Here: <https://songwriterlink.com/lyrics/buy/christmas-miles-between>

(Verse 1)

There's a light on the porch I forgot to turn off,

Guess part of me hoped you'd come walkin'
up.

Your coat's still hangin' behind the door,
I can't bring myself to move it anymore.

The house knows your name, every board,
every wall,

And the silence gets louder when night starts to fall.

I talk to you quiet so nobody hears,
Like you might still be here this time of year.

(Chorus)

There's Christmas miles between us now,
And I feel every one when the sun goes down.

I miss the way you made this place feel warm,
I miss the way you kept me from feelin' lost.
But God, look at you—look how you grew,
Chasin' the life you were born into.
Even broken-hearted, I'll stand here proud,
Lovin' you loud, even from the ground.

(Verse 2)

I see your strength in the way you stand,
Even when life didn't go as planned.
You learned to smile through the weight you carried,
Learned that brave ain't never bein' ready.
And every time I start to feel small,
I hear your voice sayin' don't give up at all.
You make me wanna be better than I've been,
Even if I'm doin' it without your hand.

(Chorus)

There's Christmas miles between us now,
But you're still the reason I straighten out.
When I'm tired, when I'm scared, when I
wanna quit,

You're the reason I don't give in to it.

I miss your laugh, I miss your eyes,
I miss sayin' "Merry Christmas" side by side.
But if lovin' you means lettin' you fly,
I'll cry alone and call it right.

(Bridge)

If you ever wonder if you still matter here,
I still set two stockings every year.
I still pray your road is kind and clear,
Even if it don't lead back to me.
I'm learnin' slow, but I'm learnin' true—
How to grow the way I watched you do.

(Final Chorus)

There's Christmas miles between us now,
But you're closer than my own heartbeat somehow.

In every promise I'm tryin' to keep,
In every night I don't fall apart completely.
So if you're starin' at the same cold sky,

Know I'm thankin' God you're alive.
Even far away, even out of view,
This Christmas... I'm better because of you.

(Outro)

Snow keeps fallin'...
And I still love you.

Hidden Fire

(Duet)

Genre: Rock

Buy Here: <https://songwriterlink.com/lyrics/buy/hidden-fire-duet>

[Verse 1 – Him]

We keep it quiet, a friendship in the light,
But in the shadows, we burn through the night.

The world speculates, whispers and spies,
But their false accusations just fade like lies.

I almost let you go, tried to turn away,
Even found someone else along the way.

But love like ours can't be denied,

It pulls me back through the storm and tide.

[Verse 1 – Her]

I hear the rumors, see the sideways glance,
They can't see what we have in this secret dance.

The false friends tried to tear us apart,
But they never touched the fire in our hearts.

I almost let fear break our fragile thread,
But your hand in mine pulled me ahead.

Even when the world demanded I stay,
I knew with you, my soul could find its way

[Pre-Chorus – Both, alternating lines]

(Him) The whispers tried to shake our core,

(Her) But every lie just made me want you more.

(Him) We fought through shadows, pain, and fear,

(Her) And every heartbeat kept you near.

[Chorus – Both]

We keep this hidden fire,

A love the world can't see.

A friendship in the daylight,

A storm between you and me.

They speculated, doubted, tried to burn us
down,
But their falsehoods only cleared the ground.
We almost fell apart, but now we stand
higher,
Together we rise, fueled by our secret fire.
[Verse 2 – Him]

I lost someone I thought could fill the space,
Taken too soon by war's cruel embrace.
The pain reminded me why I can't let go,
Why your love is the only thing I know.
Through danger, through chaos, we found
our path,
No rumor, no shadow could break our grasp.
The closer we came, the stronger we grew,
This secret love became our truth.
[Verse 2 – Her]

I felt the world pressing, the judgment near,
But your arms whispered the only thing I need to hear.
Every kiss, every stolen night,
Taught me what it feels like to finally be right.

We burned through trials that almost pulled us apart,

Yet every fire only hardened our hearts.

Even in secrecy, even in pain,

This love became the sun after the rain.

[Bridge – Both alternating, then together]

(Him) They tried to expose what they couldn't see,

(Her) They stirred their chaos, but we were free.

(Him) Through heartbreak, through loss,
through fire and fear,

(Her) We found a bond no world could tear.

(Both) We rise, we burn, we live our desire, Hidden from the world, yet setting hearts on fire.

[Final Chorus – Both, powerful climax]

We keep this hidden fire,

A love the world can't see.

A friendship in the daylight,

A storm between you and me.

They speculated, doubted, tried to burn us
down,

But their falsehoods only cleared the ground.

We almost fell apart, but now we stand
higher,

Together we rise, fueled by our secret fire.

[Outro – Soft, haunting]

(Her) Even in the shadows, I feel you near...

(Him) Even when the world sleeps, our fire's clear...

(Both) Hidden... but alive... our hearts on fire.

Tending Fire in the Rain

Genre: Country

Buy Here: <https://songwriterlink.com/lyrics/buy/tending-fire-in-the-rain>

(Verse 1)

We are two flint-stones struck in the dark,
Each guarding a small and a solitary spark.
The clouds moved in with a leaden weight,
Pressing down on the hearths we tried to create.

Now the air is thick with the scent of damp
pine;

I'm tending to my ghosts, and you're tending to thine.

We've pulled our coats tight, turned away
from the gale,

To fix the foundations where we started to fail.

(Chorus)

But is this the season where the fire goes
cold?

Cupping my palms against a wind so bold.

The rain is relentless, the timber is soaked,
In the grayest of silences, our love is cloaked.

I'm terrified, darling, as the sky turns to black—

When the sun finally breaks, will you want to come back?

(Verse 2)

You're a fortress of iron, I'm a mountain of stone,

We've always known how to stand quite alone.

But this fog in my marrow, this weight in my head,

Has left the bright embers hanging by a thread.

I watch your smoke rising from the edge of the wood,

I'd reach through the deluge to you if I could—

But we're both treading water in our separate storms,

Waiting for the weather to let us be warm.
(Chorus)

Is this the season where the fire goes cold?
Cupping my palms against a wind so bold.

The rain is relentless, the timber is soaked,
In the grayest of silences, our love is cloaked.

I'm terrified, darling, as the sky turns to
black—

When the sun finally breaks, will you want to come back?

(Bridge)

Am I just a shadow in your storm-darkened eyes?

A memory of warmth under clearer skies?
As you dry out your spirit and you outrun the rain,

Will you find that you've outgrown my corner of the plain?

I want you to heal, I want you to shine,
I just pray that your hand still seeks out mine.
Because you're the gold at the end of the gray,
But I'm scared I'm the weight that you'll wash
away.

(Guitar Solo - Melancholy and slow)
(Chorus)

Is this the season where the fire goes cold?
Cupping my palms against a wind so bold.
The rain is relentless, the timber is soaked,
In the grayest of silences, our love is cloaked.
I'm terrified, darling, as the sky turns to
black—

When the sun finally breaks, will you want to come back?
(Outro)

The clouds are shifting, slow and gray.
I'm still here, blowing on the ash of today.
Just a bittersweet ember, a low, steady light...
Will you still want my fire at the end of the night?
At the end of the night...

I'm still holding the light.
Are you coming back?

Burn the Key

Genre: Metal

Buy Here: <https://songwriterlink.com/lyrics/buy/burn-the-key>

(Verse 1)

The salt of the earth is a bitter taste tonight, Hiding in the hollows, just a ghost in your sight.

Your skin is a map of a land I can't claim,
Burning in the silence without even a name.
We're pressed into the shadows like a crease
in the dark,

Waiting for a signal, waiting for the spark.

(Chorus)

Oh, I'm reaching for the rafters and I'm clawing at the dust!

Is there any grace in Heaven for a love built
on this trust!

Do I scream into the furnace or the silence of the sky!

Just to hold you in the open before the morning light can die!

Break the lock, burn the key!

Set this hidden sinning free!

(Verse 2)

You're a heartbeat away but a lifetime to hold,
Turning all the copper in my spirit into gold.
But the gold is just a weight when it's buried in the sand,

I'm reaching for the water with a trembling,
empty hand.

They call it a crime, they call it a wall,
But I'd rather take the plummet than never feel the fall.

(Never feel the fall.)

(Chorus)

Oh, I'm reaching for the rafters and I'm claw-
ing at the dust!

Is there any grace in Heaven for a love built
on this trust!

Do I scream into the furnace or the silence of the sky!

Just to hold you in the open before the morning light can die!

Break the lock, burn the key!

Set this hidden sinning free!

(Set this hidden sinning free!)

(Outro)

Not a sin... not a sin...

Let the fire... begin.

(Let it begin.)

Open... in the open...

(In the open.)

Fault Line

Genre: Metal

Buy Here: <https://songwriterlink.com/lyrics/buy/fault-line>

(Verse 1)

Five thousand miles of static on the line
A fortress built on secrets and stolen time I'm carving out a kingdom from the dirt and the stone

To bridge the hollow silence of being alone
But as I reach for the light, the sky begins to gray

The path I've been clearing is washing away.

(Verse 2)

You're drifting in the shadows of a failing frame
While I'm still a ghost whispering your name
I watch you fight a war within your own skin
While I'm locked outside, where the cold begins
I want to hold the weight, I want to break the fall
But there's a glass horizon and a rising wall.
(Pre-Chorus)
(Music intensifies, double-kick drums begin)
The clock is ticking in a rhythm of decay
The words we need are the ones we cannot say.
(Chorus)
And I feel the earthquake coming!
Before the truth has even left our lips
I see the foundations start to slip
Is this the end of the world we made in the dark?
A dying ember or a wildfire spark?
The ground is screaming, the air is getting
thin
I'm waiting for the tectonic shift to begin.

(Verse 3)

(Music drops to a heavy, chugging mid-tempo)

I saw your hand today, bare against the light
The circle you wore for the "wrong" or the
"right"

You wear it like armor when we're skin to skin

But leave it behind where the "real" world begins

Are you shedding the past, or just hiding the stain?

While your body is breaking under the strain.

(Bridge)

(Tempo slows down, heavy and sludge-like)

You say you're not ready for the thunder to roll

You're just trying to keep a grip on your soul
But the storm doesn't wait for the flowers to bloom

It doesn't ask permission to enter the room!
(Vocals shift to a visceral scream)

HEAVEN! GIVE ME A SIGN!

HELL! GUARD HER LIFE!

If she can't stand, let the shadows provide!
Keep the reaper at bay while I swallow my pride!

(Guitar Solo)

(Chaotic, high-pitched notes mirroring the feeling of an alarm or a panic attack, transitioning into a melodic, mournful section.)

(Chorus)

I feel the earthquake coming!
Before the truth has even left our lips
I see the foundations start to slip
Is this the end of the world we made in the dark?

A dying ember or a wildfire spark?
The ground is screaming, the air is getting
thin

I'm waiting for the tectonic shift to begin.

(Outro)

(Slow, crushing breakdown)

Heal for the wreckage.

Heal for the fire.

I'm standing on the fault line...

Waiting for the wire to snap.

Tremors

Genre: Country

Buy Here: <https://songwriterlink.com/lyrics/buy/tremors>

(Verse 1)

I've been putting in the overtime, saving every cent

Tearing down the miles where the summer nights went

Trying to build a bridge across the county line

To finally put my hand in yours and say that you're mine

But the signal's getting weaker, and your voice is sounding thin

Like the walls of the house are starting to cave in.

(Verse 2)

You're fighting off a shadow that I can't see Struggling just to breathe, let alone be with me

I'm sitting on the porch, staring at the map
While you're caught in a canyon, falling through the gap

I want to run to you, but you say you need the space

To find a little healing and a little bit of grace.

(Chorus)

And I can feel the tremor underneath our feet

The kind of shake that makes a life complete... or incomplete

We've been living in the quiet, loving in the dark

Waiting for the sky to catch a single honest
spark

Is the earthquake coming? Is the floor gonna break?

How much more of this "maybe" can one heart take?

(Verse 3)

I saw you in the sunlight through a blurry screen

The prettiest thing that I've ever seen
But your left hand was heavy with a missing space

Where that gold band usually takes its place
You wear it like a secret when the sun goes down

But you leave it on the table when you head into town

Is it a sign of the end, or a way to feel free?
While you're fighting for your life, are you letting go of me?

(Bridge)

(Music swells with a warm, Hammond organ sound)

I'm reaching for the rafters, I'm talking to the wind

I don't know where the "us" ends and the
"them" begins

But Lord, if You're listening, keep her spirit strong

Even if the path I'm walking is the one they call wrong

Let the angels watch her breathing, let the devil stay away

I'll stand out in the rain if it means she's okay.

(Guitar Solo)

(A melodic, weeping slide guitar solo—harkening back to that "reflective" feeling.)

(Chorus)

Yeah, I can feel the tremor underneath our feet

The kind of shake that makes a life complete... or incomplete

We've been living in the quiet, loving in the dark

Waiting for the sky to catch a single honest
spark

break?

How much more of this "maybe" can one
heart take?

(Outro)

(Slows down to just an acoustic guitar)

Just get your strength back, honey.
The truth is gonna find us soon enough.
I'm standing on the fault line...
Praying for the dust to settle.
Guard her life tonight.
Yeah, guard her life.
(Fade out on a final, resonant chord)

Stand or Fall

Genre: Country

Buy Here: <https://songwriterlink.com/lyrics/buy/stand-or-fall>

Verse 1:

I've walked through a thousand streets, a thousand lives

Seen faces light up, then fade with every lie
Tribal lines drawn in the sand, fists in the air
People chasing glory, forgetting who's really there

I've felt that fire, I've raised my hand
Fought battles of ego I didn't understand
But now I see it clear, beneath all the pride

The enemy's the one who's keeping us divided

Pre-Chorus:

We point our fingers, we scream and shout
But the walls we build are what we're really about

Chorus:

If we're fighting each other, we've already lost
Every battle we pick comes at a cost
Stand together, or we'll fall apart
The real enemy's the fear inside our hearts
Pick a side, and you've given them the game
But stand as one, and we'll rise through the flame

Verse 2:

I've scrolled through the madness, seen the world online
Everyone's a soldier in someone else's fight
Jealous hearts and shiny crowns, ego rules the day
But love is the only thing that keeps the dark
away
I stumble, I fall, I've been blind before

But I'm done chasing shadows behind closed doors

No more sides, no more walls, no more blame

Time to rise, ignite the spark, and call out their name

Pre-Chorus:

We point our fingers, we scream and shout
But the walls we build are what we're really
about

Chorus:

If we're fighting each other, we've already lost
Every battle we pick comes at a cost
Stand together, or we'll fall apart
The real enemy's the fear inside our hearts
Pick a side, and you've given them the game
But stand as one, and we'll rise through the
flame

Bridge (rock breakdown, emotional):

No more shadows, no more lies
No more hiding behind our pride
Hear the voices calling strong
It's been us against the world all along Chorus (Final, Big Anthem):

If we're fighting each other, we've already lost
Every battle we pick comes at a cost
Stand together, or we'll fall apart
The real enemy's the fear inside our hearts
Pick a side, and you've given them the game
But stand as one, and we'll rise through the
flame

Outro:

Rise through the flame...

Stand or fall...

Stand or fall together
